LEAN PICKINGS ON WATERFRONT

NOT AN ARRIVAL REPORTED
SINCE YESTERDAY—WEATHER
STOPPED GILL NETTERS.

The stiff northeasterly breeze kicking up a mean sea was to blame for the fact that nary an arrival of fresh fish was reported here. The gill net fleet remained in port yesterday, realizing they would be unable to life their nets, and instead sailed early this morning. The mackerel seining fleet left port early this morning upon learning of the catch landed at Boston Fish pier and caught in Barnstable bay.
